Over 30 million Americans are afflicted by hunger; 12.9 million of whom are children.

46 million pounds of food are thrown out yearly in the U.S.; only 4 billion pounds of food are needed to completely end hunger in the U.S.

Over half of all U.S. taxes go to military expenses.

The money spent worldwide on weapons in one week is enough to feed all the people on earth for one year.

The 1996 federal welfare reform law cuts about 30 billion dollars in nutrition programs (about 27 billion cut in food stamps alone)

The richest 2% of U.S. households own 36 to 38% of total U.S. wealth.

The richest 20% of U.S. households controls 80% of total U.S. wealth.

There was a 37% increase in income disparity between rich and poor between 1968 and 1994.

Real wages for men ages 25 to 34 have dropped 26% since 1972.

FOOD NOT BOMBS Ann Arbor serves reclaimed vegetarian food to anyone who is hungry, regardless of financial status, every Sunday from 1p.m. to 3p.m. at Liberty Plaza. Please join us.

FOOD NOT BOMBS

Ann Arbor

BAGELS, CONSUMERISM, AND YOU.

We live in a consumer society. It works like this: the more people consume, the better for the economy. And what's good for the economy is good for everyone, right? Wrong. What about the 30 million people in this country who go hungry on a regular basis while 46 billion pounds of food are left to rot in garbage dumps every year?

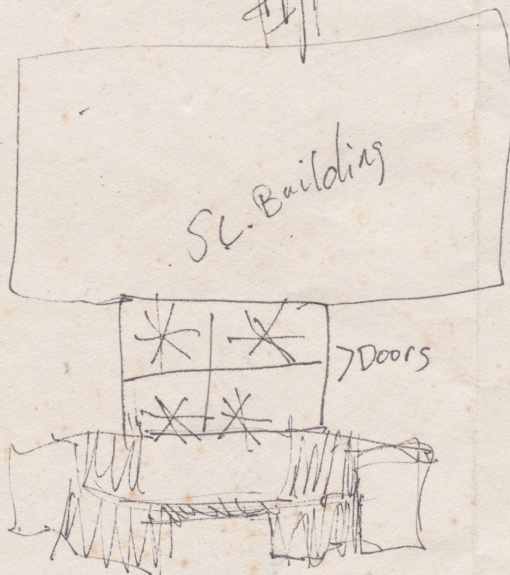

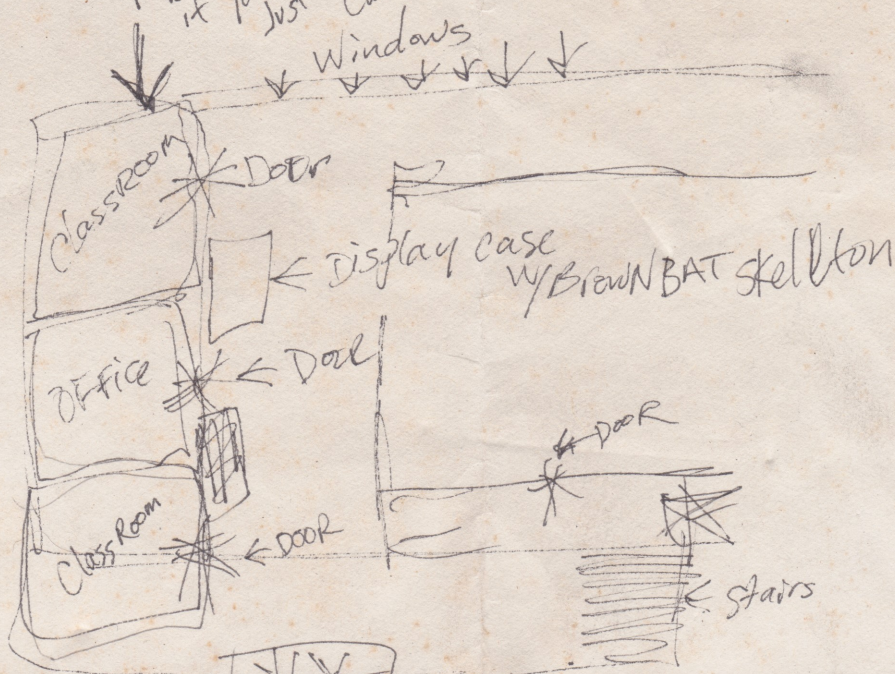

You may be wondering what garbage and hunger have to do with consumerism. Here's how it really works: a consumer mindset is a wasteful mindset. Why salvage something old, or even less than perfect, when you can just throw it out and get a new one? In the United States, this goes for food too.

The fact is, there is an overabundance of food produced in this country. This allows the wealthier portions of society to demand ridiculously high standards for food. For example, day-old bagels are thrown out each night so that more can be made fresh the next day. Are the bagels rotten or moldy after 24 hours of existence? Of course not, but people with financial resources have the luxury of proclaiming such foods as unfit for consumption, regardless of the surplus created, because competition for their money ensures that store owners will scramble to keep up.

This is not a scenario exclusive to bagels, either. Our consumer society's never-ending drive for more and more profits ensures that things aren't produced because of a necessity for them, but simply to be bought. Fresh produce, baked goods and dry goods are constantly thrown out in huge quantities to make room for new shipments. And meanwhile, the United States has the highest poverty rate among all the industrialized nations.

Our priorities need to be examined and re-evaluated. Capitalism and consumerism encourage us to buy more, more, more, without considering the effect on the rest of the world. Food Not Bombs encourages you to consider your place in all of this. Please look around you, and think about how your actions and purchases affect others.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 28TH, 1997 AT 11:30 AM
JUSTIN HERMAN PLAZA, SAN FRANCISCO
(EMBARCADERO STATION ON BART)

On Oct 6, 1997 NASA plans to launch the Cassini space probe. Cassini will carry 72.3 pounds of Plutonium Dioxide, the most toxic substance known to science. Cassini will be the first of a dozen NASA launches containing large amounts of radioactive material. Cassini will be launched on a Titan IV rocket, the same type of rocket that exploded on a launch pad in 1993. In addition to an explosion on launch, there is a danger that Cassini could reenter the Earth's atmosphere. NASA estimates that if an unplanned reentry should occur 5 billion people could be exposed to radiation, and thousands will die of cancer.¹

The Northern California Stop Cassini Coalition is asking you to join us in a protest of this insane plan. To contact us please call:

When preparing to move into the house your affinity group should come to a collective agreement on what to do in police and arrest situations. Things like jail solidarity, lockdowns, and walkouts should be planned ahead of time. Your group will meet at the designated time and place before moving in. All groups will converge inside to form a large mass. Dress for success! Do not carry banners, pickets, or oversized packs. Please be as inconspicuous as possible. Once we are all inside, the AUTONOMOUS ZONE will be open and the fun will truly begin!

We will defend the building and ourselves by NOT engaging the police. Remember, they can't arrest us if they can't get to us. We win with the strength of our numbers, so come in and stay a while!

What to bring: warm clothing, a day's worth of food and water, a simple bedroll, flashlight, a bowl and utensils, and a handkerchief... also, wear glasses instead of contact lenses.

The United Nation's Universal Declaration of Human Rights states that "Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself and of his family, including food, clothing, housing and medical care and necessary social services..." (Article 25, United Nation's Universal Declaration of Human Rights.)

FREE LAND ACTION GROUP

We are taking over a building to provide immediate, emergency housing for homeless and displaced persons. We intend on improving the building and securing it as a permanent residence for low and no-income tenants. We are hoping to provide a clear example of community where cooperation and respect are the paramount values, not self-promotion and corporate greed. We are creating a temporary community where people can freely come and go. All are welcome.

Why are we doing this public housing action?

By the estimates of the District of Columbia's own DHCD, on any given day in Washington, 1450 people are without any shelter, while 6600 people are in emergency or transitional shelters. At the same time, DHCD has published that 29,000 units of housing remain unoccupied each and every night.

Rather than come to the aid of the working class and the poor, the city government has begun declaring homes uninhabitable and evicting the renters from these 'hazardous' houses, and readying them for redevelopment. In effect, the DC government is acting as an agent of gentrification.

We feel that it is imperative to resist the growing social and economic inequities promoted by powerful international interests, such as the IMF, the World Bank, and the WTO, especially when such organizations act to further condition local governments to respond solely to large corporate interests.

In the same way that developing countries are made to comply with IMF austerity programs, DC has seen it's own form of "structural adjustment programs." Since 1994, over $100 million/ year in cuts to the social safety net for our children, poor, disabled, and elderly have been forced by the DC government and Control Board.

The Control Board is an unelected body created by the US Congress that serves corporate interests. It is no accident that the World Bank, located in DC, is a sponsor of DC's devastating "economic resurgence" plan, and that Darius Mans, a World Bank Economist with a record of implementing privatization in the developing world, sits on DC's Control Board.

LOGISTICS:

Our house will accommodate 80 or more people and provide shelter from weather and law enforcement. It has water, a kitchen, and possibly electricity. We also have a communication system.

Interested? We're moving in soon - and in numbers. You can join us by working in an affinity group. Recruits have details about how, when, and where this action will occur.

Our community will have a few basic tenets. Participants should plan on spending some time in the house and commit to working respectfully within the community in maintaining and keeping the space. We will have a good neighbor policy, and neither firearms nor insobriety are welcome.
